Having cleared that preventive boat maintenance is the solution, the next question is, how do we assess the level of damage so that the necessary preventive repairs can be initiated. Here, expertise in boat repairs comes into the picture, as one has to be able to predict where exactly the boat may fail if not shored up properly. Of course, running it through stress analysis and strength measurement tests also helps, but, nevertheless, years of experience and an understanding of where the boat may fail goes a long way in helping with the boat repairs.
